DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Kwan teaches a method and corresponding system for determining the price of an option to pay for or sell cargo freight. Pricing of the options may be based on several criterion including, date of departure, type of cargo, and so on. By selling such option, the carriers will have extra cash flow and reliability.

Kwan does not teach determining the distribution of receivables (receivables being defined in the specification as including charged-off consumer receivables, charged-off commercial receivables, delinquent consumer receivables, and/or delinquent commercial receivables, or a hybrid, such as unpaid credit with some characteristics of delinquent receivables some characteristics of charged-off receivables); the purchase option providing the potential grantee the right but not the obligation to purchase the receivable, the purchase option providing the grantor with an obligation to sell the receivable; acceptance of the option fee by the grantor constituting an acceptance by the grantor of the purchase option from the potential grantee and thereby providing the potential grantee the right to purchase the receivable at or before the end of an option period; and the notification date being a date on or before which the potential grantee is required by the purchase option to provide notification to the grantor regarding purchase of the receivable, wherein the option period is a time period that exists between the accepting the option fee by the grantor and the notification date.
